RAILROADS.—Peru.—According to a recent report of Alfred L. M. Gottschalk, U. S. Consul at Callao, Peru, the present Government of Peru has among its chief aims that of covering the country with a network of railways and of doing all that is possible to encourage foreign immigration and colonization. The Government is prepared to give to concessioners valuable considerations in the way of land grants, guaranteeing a certain sure percentage on the amounts invested, etc. The opening of the Panama Canal will place Peru in comparatively close touch with the United States, and the facilities offered to foreign concessioners will naturally be fewer then than they are today. Seven new railroads are now projected, as follows:

Oroya to Huancayo.—Road is to have approximate length of 13 miles; construction was to be commenced by Peruvian Government in January, 1905.

Sicuani to Cuzco.—Approximate length, 87 miles; construction was to be begun by Government in January or February, 1905.

Oroya to Ucayoli.—Approximate length of 248½ miles: now under Government survey, and construction is to be commenced in 1906.

Pulra to Pongo de Manseriche.—Concession granted to Pacific Co., New York City; road is to be about 310 miles long, and construction work must be commenced in 1907.

Lima to Pisco.—"The Peruvian Corporation," a British syndicate already controlling certain railroads in Peru, will construct this road, which is to be about 140 miles long.

Chimbote to Recuay.—English syndicate is reported to have been formed to construct this road, which is to be some 137 miles long.

Bayovar to Sechura.—Some 15.5 miles are now under construction by the parties interested in the Sulphur beds at Sechura.

PUBLIC WORKS.—Argentina.—Our correspondent in Buenos Aires has sent us the following information concerning projected public and private work in this country:

Railway.—The Argentine Railway Co., recently formed in London under the direction of Mr. Edward Casey for the construction of the line from Chacabuco to San Luis, will soon issue $7,500,000 in debentures to set the business on foot.

Electric Tramway.—A contract was signed Dec. 21 by the Mayor of Buenos Aires for the concession granted to Messrs. Lacaze and Sawyer, for an electric tramway joining up the Western suburbs of the Federal Capital. It is understood here that a French syndicate have already taken up the concession with a view of building the lines which will finally be brought to the center of the city.

Buoys.—A decree, signed in Cabinet Council, has accepted the offer of Mr. J. P. BREDIUS, on behalf of the Pintch's Patent Lighting Co., to supply 100 luminous buoys with apparatus for intermittent light and with pieces for repairs at the price of $139,997 gold.

Electric Tramway.—Lacroze Brothers, owners of Rural Tramway Co., have resolved to electrify their lines in the center of the city, and also that section of their steam tramway which runs to the town of San Martin.

Then follow testimonials and photographs showing how it has been "Solved" by using pipe with Universal Joints made by this company.

CONCRETE BUILDINGS.—The American Hydraulic Stone Co., Century Building, Denver, Colo. Paper; 6 × 9¼ ins.; pp. 48; illustrated.

The company's building blocks are shown and described, together with a number of buildings constructed of these blocks. The buildings include residences, the office of the National Electric Co. and the Nebraska State normal school. Numerous testimonials are given and there are plans for the construction of tanks, chimneys, bridge abutments, retaining walls, etc.

PRESSURE TANK WATER SUPPLY SYSTEM.—The Country Hydrant Co., St. Louis, Mo. Paper; 4¼ × 8 ins.; pp. 20; illustrated.

This system is intended for farm and country houses with well supply. A closed self-filling tank is set at the bottom of the well, with an air pipe connected to the top and a discharge pipe at the bottom. An air compressor worked by hand is used to charge a pressure tank connected to the air pipe, and when the cock on the discharge pipe (in the house) is opened the pressure forces the water from the well tank up the discharge pipe and into the pipe system laid through the house and premises.

WATER TOWERS.—Chicago Bridge & Iron Works, 165th Sts., Chicago, Ill. Paper; 4½ × 7 ins.; pp. 64; illustrated.

The greater part of this attractive little pamphlet is devoted to views and descriptions of water towers of standard and special designs, the elevated tanks having hemispherical bottoms. The structures are for city, railway and factory supply. Steel smokestacks, retorts and bridges are also included, and there are several pages devoted to lists of dimensions and capacities of tanks, properties of riveted joints, etc.

SPIRAL RIVETED PIPE.—Abendroth & Root Manufacturing Co., Newburgh, N. Y. 4½ × 7 ins.; pp. 64.

Many photographs show some of the uses to which this pipe has been put. Among these purposes one of the most interesting is a pipe line on pontoons used for conveying the material raised by a hydraulic dredge. Numerous tables give the diameters, weight, etc., of the Root spiral riveted pipe, also of cast-iron fittings. The Root bolted joint is illustrated. Galvanized spiral riveted bilge pumps are shown, and prices given. Tables for converting pressure per square inch into feet head of water, weight of metals, etc., are placed at the end of the catalogue.

PUMPS, PUMPING ENGINES AND ACCESSORIES.—M. T. Davidson, 45 Keap St., Brooklyn, N. Y. Paper; 6 × 9 ins.; pp. 96; illustrated.

Besides steam pumps, pumping engines, power, air and vacuum pumps, there are here described condensers, evaporating and distilling apparatus, air compressors, exhaust relief, three-way balanced hydraulic valves, foot valves, basket strainers and a hydraulic ash ejector. The latter is used for removing ashes from fire rooms by means of pipe leading overboard through the side of the ship, and by providing it with a separate suction pipe it can be used as an auxiliary bilge ejector. Useful tables are inserted at the back of the catalogue.

AIR COMPRESSORS.—Sullivan Machinery Co., Chicago. Paper; 6 × 9 ins.; pp. 127; illustrated.

In this handsome descriptive catalogue the company's various types of compressors are described, and are illustrated by half-tone views of the machines and the detail parts, and also by sectional drawings. The dimensions, capacities, etc., are given in tabular form. Other apparatus described includes receivers and reheaters, rock drills and channelers, coal pick machines, prospecting core drills, and mine hoisting engines. Several pages are also devoted to the efficiency and operation of air compressors, tables of loss of friction in pipes, and similar information.

HOISTING AND CONVEYING MACHINERY.—McMyler Manufacturing Co., Cleveland, O. 6 × 9 ins.; pp. 74.

The well-known McMyler locomotive cranes and revolving cranes are shown by photographs, which indicate some of the many uses to which these machines may be put. One, for example, is seen operating an orange-peel bucket for dredging; another, handling a clam-shell bucket, is loading the cars with sand. Ten of these machines were used in building the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Unloading towers and ore and coal conveyors, fuel-handling machines, hoisting engines, car-dumping machines, clam-shell buckets, orange-peel buckets, patented bottom dump buckets, scoop buckets, etc., form interesting features of this catalogue.

SPIRAL RIVETED PIPE.—American Spiral Pipe Works, 1173-1201 South Paulina St., Chicago. 4 × 8 ins.; pp. 54.

Taylor's spiral riveted pipe is illustrated by many photographs showing some of the uses to which it has been put. Tables are given of sizes, weights, strengths and prices. Standard cast-iron fittings are also listed, as well as valves of different types. Tables are given for weir, dam measurement and miners' inch measurement, also tables showing the flow of water through pipes and head lost by friction, tables for calculating horse-power, etc. In view of the valuable data contained in this book, and the fact that it has a cloth binding, it may well serve as a book of reference for engineers.
